

Contents

Conjunction and Modal Assessment in Genre Classification: A Corpus-Based Study of Historical and Experimental Science Writing / 1

Shlomo Argamon and Jeff Dodick

Discovering Subjectivity Using Multi-Document Summaries / 9

Michele Banko and Lucy Vanderwende

Exploring Sentiment Summarization / 12

Philip Beineke, Trevor Hastie, Christopher Manning, and Shivakumar Vaithyanathan

Attributions / 16

Sabine Bergler, Monia Doandes, Christine Gerard, and René Witte

Automatic Extraction of Opinion Propositions and their Holders / 20

Steven Bethard, Hong Yu, Ashley Thornton, Vasileios Hatzivassiloglou, and Dan Jurafsky

Building a Weighted Dictionary for Referential Activity / 28

Wilma Bucci and Bernard Maskit

Approaches for Automatically Tagging Affect / 36

Nathanael Chambers, Joel Tetreault, and James Allen

A Two Dimensional Annotation Scheme for Emotion in Dialogue / 44

Richard Craggs and Mary McGee Wood

Hedging in Scientific Articles as a Means of Classifying Citations / 50

Chrysanne Di Marco and Robert E. Mercer

Automatic Critiquing of Novices' Scientific Writing Using Argumentative Zoning / 55

Valéria D. Feltrim and Simone Teufel

Analysis of Linguistic Features Associated with Point of View for Generating Stylistically Appropriate Text / 59

Nancy L. Green

Validating the Coverage of Lexical Resources for Affect Analysis and Automatically Classifying New Words along Semantic Axes / 63

Gregory Grefenstette, Yan Qu, David A. Evans, and James G. Shanahan

Identifying Interpersonal Distance using Systemic Features / 71

Maria Herke-Couchman, Casey Whitelaw, and Jon Patrick

Generating More-Positive and More-Negative Text / 75

Diana Zaiu Inkpen, Olga Feiguina, and Graeme Hirst

Reading between the Lines: Attitudinal Expression in Text / 82

Jussi Karlgren, Gunnar Eriksson, Kristofer Franzén, Preben Hansen, Stegano Mizzaro, Paul Clough, and Mark Sanderson

Good News or Bad News? Let the Market Decide / 86

Moshe Koppel and Itai Shtrimberg

A Semantic Lexicon for Emotions and Feelings / 89

Yvette Yannick Mathieu

The Subjectivity of Lexical Cohesion in Text / 94

Jane Morris and Graeme Hirst

Towards a Robust Metric of Opinion / 98

Kamal Nigam and Matthew Hurst

Contextual Lexical Valence Shifters / 106

Livia Polanyi and Annie Zaenen

Politeness and Summarization: An Exploratory Study / 112

Norton Trevisan Roman, Paul Piwek, and Ariadne Maria Brito Rizzoni Carvalho

Certainty Categorization Model / 118

Victoria L. Rubin, Noriko Kando, and Elizabeth D. Liddy

Discerning Emotions in Texts / 124

Victoria L. Rubin, Jeffrey M. Stanton, and Elizabeth D. Liddy

Impact of Lexical Filtering on Overall Opinion Polarity Identification / 128

Franco Salvetti, Stephen Lewis, and Christoph Reichenbach

An Affect-Based Text Mining System for Qualitative Analysis of Japanese Free Text / 134

Makoto Sano

Analysis of Multi-Document Viewpoint Summarization Using Multi-Dimensional
Genres / 142

Yohei Seki, Koji Eguchi, and Noriko Kando

Mining Multilingual Opinions through Classification and Translation / 146

James G. Shanahan, Gregory Grefenstette, Yan Qu, and David A. Evans

Evaluating an Opinion Annotation Scheme Using a New Multi-Perspective Question and Answer Corpus / 150

Veselin Stoyanov, Claire Cardie, Diane Litman, and Janyce Wiebe

Analyzing Appraisal Automatically / 158

Maite Taboada and Jack Grieve

Attributing Beliefs and Attitudes when the Experiencer is Implicit: The Difference between Discourse and Attitude Adjectives / 162

Gina Taranto

Argumentative Zoning for Improved Citation Indexing / 166

Simone Teufel

Characterizing Attitudinal Behaviors in On-Line Open-Sources / 172

Richard M. Tong and Ronald R. Yager

Acquisition of Subjective Adjectives with Limited Resources / 175

Stefano Vegnaduzzo